General Information

The University of Cambridge is one of the world's oldest and most successful universities. We are a renowned centre for research, education, and scholarship that makes a significant contribution to society. The University is consistently ranked amongst the top universities in the world. Our affiliates have won more Nobel Prizes than any other University.

Our sustained pursuit of academic excellence is built on a long history of first-class teaching and research within a distinctive collegiate system. For eight centuries our ideas and innovations have shaped the world. Our principal goal is to remain one of the world's leading universities in an increasingly competitive global higher education sector. Today the University of Cambridge is at the centre of a cluster of over 4,300 businesses employing 58,000 people.

Our capital investment projects include the West Cambridge site, the North West Cambridge development and the growth of the Biomedical Campus in the south of the city. The North West Cambridge development includes the opening of a primary school – the first in the UK to be managed by a University. So we are deeply embedded in, and committed to serving, our local community. These are all conspicuous signs of a University that is not only adapting to new needs, but also anticipating the future.

Our mission is to contribute to society through the pursuit of education, learning, and research at the highest international levels of excellence. Our core values are:

- freedom of thought and expression; and
- freedom from discrimination.

About Us

The University is one of the world's leading academic centres. It comprises 150 faculties and departments, together with a central administration and other institutions. Our institutions, museums and collections are a world-class resource for researchers, students and members of the public representing one of the country's highest concentrations of internationally important collections. The University has an annual income of £2 billion. Research income, won competitively from the UK Research Councils, the European Union (EU), major charities and industry, exceeds £500 million per annum and continues to grow.

The Colleges and the University remain committed to admitting the best students regardless of their background and to investing considerable resources both in widening access and financial support. The 31 Colleges are self-governing, separate legal entities which appoint their own staff. Many academic staff are invited to join a College as a Teaching Fellow, which provides a further social and intellectual dimension. The Colleges admit students, provide student accommodation and deliver small group teaching. The University awards degrees and its faculties and departments provide lectures and seminars for students and determine the syllabi for teaching and conducting research.

Our instinct for seeking out excellence and setting up enduring and mutually beneficial collaborations has led us to establish strategic partnerships across the globe. Whether it is the successful Cambridge-Africa Programme involving universities in Ghana, Uganda and elsewhere on the African continent; or the close association with the government of India to pursue new research in crop science; or the creation, with Germany's Max Planck Institutes, of a Cambridge-based centre for the study of ethics, human economy and social change – international partnerships are now an inextricable part of the University's make-up.

There is much more information about the University at <http://www.cam.ac.uk/univ/works/index.html>.

Department of Engineering

The Department of Engineering is the largest department in the University of Cambridge, representing approximately 10% of the University's activities by the majority of common metrics, and is one of Europe's largest integrated engineering departments. It achieves the highest standards in both research and teaching. Its international reputation attracts the best students, academics, sponsors and partners from around the world. The Department is accommodated on two sites; one in central Cambridge and four satellite buildings in West Cambridge.

The Department seeks to benefit society by creating world-leading engineering knowledge that fosters sustainability, prosperity and resilience. We share this knowledge and transfer it to industry through publication, teaching, collaboration, licensing and entrepreneurship. By integrating engineering disciplines in one department, we can address major challenges and develop complete solutions, serving as an international hub for engineering excellence.

The Department is committed to promoting gender equality as part of a landscape of encouraging diversity, tolerance and a culture of mutual support. The dedicated Diversity Committee oversees equality, diversity and inclusion related activities in the Department, and holds regular events to promote Engineering to under-represented groups. The Department was first granted an Athena SWAN Silver Award in 2017, which was renewed in September 2020 to recognise the Department's ongoing commitment to advancing the careers of women in STEMM. The Department of Engineering continues to make excellent progress towards achieving gender balance amongst its staff and students. More information on the Athena SWAN Charter can be found here.

The Department has six Academic Divisions and two Services Divisions as follows:

Academic Divisions	Division A – Acoustics, Energy, Fluid Mechanics and Turbomachinery
	Division B – Electrical Engineering
	Division C - Mechanics, Materials and Design
	Division D – Civil, Structural and Environmental Engineering with Sustainable Development

	Division F – Information Engineering
Services Divisions	Division V – HR Office, Research Office, Graduate Studies Office, Teaching Office (including Faculty Board and Exams), Finance Office, Library, Building and Estate Services, Information and Computing Services
	Division W – Design and Technical Services

The size and two site location means it is especially important to have an effective organisational structure in place. All staff are assigned to the appropriate Academic or Support Service Division on appointment so that the line of management responsibility is clear and this role is part of Division V.

More information on the Department can be found at www.eng.cam.ac.uk.
