

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Research Associate – Centre of Governance and Human Rights (CGHR)

Department of Politics and International Studies

Closing date: 20 July 2025

Job Reference: UE46524

Research Associate – Centre of Governance and Human Rights (CGHR (fixed-term))

Salary:

£37,174-£45,413

Contract:

Fixed Term contract

Start date:

1 October 2025

Location:

Cambridge

Faculty / Department:

Department of Politics and International Studies (POLIS)

Responsible to:

Co-Directors in Centre of Governance and Human Rights (CGHR)

Working Pattern:

Full Time

The University of Cambridge has a Hybrid Working Policy that aims to enable as many staff as possible to work in a hybrid way if they so wish, whilst recognising that some roles will include tasks that can only be performed on University premises.

Purpose of the role

The Centre of Governance and Human Rights (CGHR), an interdisciplinary research centre based in the Department of Politics and International Studies (POLIS), is seeking to appoint a full-time postdoctoral researcher associate (RA) for a two-year period, starting in October 2025 to collaborate with CGHR Co-Director, Professor Sharath Srinivasan, on a new CGHR research theme, 'Communication Technology and Contentious Politics'. More specifically, the successful candidate will contribute research towards a foundational project on communication technology and contentious politics in global macro-historical perspective.

CGHR thinks critically and innovatively to foster citizen voice and solidarity-building towards a just, inclusive and better world. Across the world, societies and polities face rapid transformations in technology, alongside upheavals in climate, health, conflict and global order, and demands to address historic and new injustices. Our challenge is to more sharply understand these dynamics and their implications, and to improve how research supports progressive change and those who drive it. Academic research centres committed to praxis have a crucial role to play. At their best, they combine independence and freedom of thought, rigorous and innovative research, and patient and deep exchanges with practitioners. From over a decade of critical and collaborative praxis research, we have learnt that the crucial spaces for new thinking and action lie at intersections and in interactions between practice and scholarship, between disciplines, and between individuals and institutions across the world.

CGHR is run by Co-Directors Dr Ella McPherson (Sociology) and Professor Sharath Srinivasan (POLIS) and has, at any time, a couple of postdoctoral researchers working in the Centre. Beyond, it is an active network of faculty and researchers from the Departments of POLIS and Sociology and across the University, who engage in its work on an ad hoc basis. CGHR is, at its heart, a research centre, and members of its community work on priority themes, including a well-established and growing focus on the intersection of technology, human rights and democracy. The Centre also holds a wide range of events, seminars and dissemination activities and has regular involvement with practitioners as well as academic colleagues.

The Research Associate will be an integral member of the CGHR team and will be expected to pursue collaborative research with Professor Srinivasan on the above-mentioned research theme and project (60%) as well as to pursue independent research and writing broadly related to the theme (20%), and to work with the co-directors on convening scholar-practitioner events and networks related to technology, democracy and human rights, and supporting the work of the Centre including its student-facing activities (20%).

Candidates should hold a PhD in a relevant social science or humanities discipline, and should have an excellent research record for their career stage. They should also have excellent communication skills and experience working in a team as well as independently. Past participation in strategic development of applied research is desirable.

More information about CGHR can be found at: www.cghr.polis.cam.ac.uk
Informal enquiries may be directed to CGHR's Co-Director, Professor Sharath Srinivasan: ss919@cam.ac.uk

Key responsibilities

o

Collaborative research on the theme of communication technology and contentious politics
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Co-designing details of a new research agenda and plan of action on this theme, including by engaging with cutting edge scholars and scholarship and building CGHR's intellectual and practitioner networks. • Contributing new research, as agreed with the theme lead Professor Srinivasan, towards a foundational collaborative project on communication technology and contentious politics in global macro-historical perspective. • Contributing substantially to collaborative research outputs and publications on the foundational project and the wider research theme of national or international significance. • Designing and convening events related to the theme of communication technology and contentious politics that engage scholars and practitioners, including around the centre's research findings and their implications, and working with Co-Director Professor Srinivasan.
Independent research related to the theme of communication technology and contentious politics
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Developing an independent research and publications plan on the theme of communication technology and contentious politics. • Pursuing opportunities to present work in academic and/or practitioner/public settings to get feedback on research findings and arguments, inside and outside of Cambridge. • Contributing research outputs of national or international significance drawing on previous or new research broadly related to the theme of communication technology and contentious politics.
Convening scholar-practitioner events and networks related to technology, democracy and human rights, and supporting the Centre's work
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Liaising with the CGHR community about research and events. • Building academic and practitioner contacts beyond CGHR for knowledge exchange, for potential collaboration and to grow CGHR's profile as a representative of the Centre • Attending and participating in CGHR's events and related events at the University and beyond. • Supporting CGHR's Co-directors with building strategic partnerships with research centres and practitioner institutions, and with related fundraising. • Developing compelling content for CGHR's outreach and impact on this theme across all of our work (website, social media platforms, etc.). • Brainstorming with the CGHR co-directors on practitioner-related outputs from CGHR's research; drafting and disseminating these outputs. • Supporting CGHR's student-facing work, including through advising on student initiatives and projects.

Person Specification

Criteria	Essential	Desirable
Education & qualifications
Applicants must have been awarded a PhD in a relevant social science or humanities discipline. All applicants must hold or have submitted a PhD by the time of application	✓
Specialist knowledge & skills
Demonstrated expertise relevant to CGHR's new research theme on communication technology and contentious politics	✓
Demonstrated ability to synthesise the latest developments in the scholarship on communication technology and contentious politics, including in global and/or historical perspective	✓
Proven contribution to scholarly knowledge in the area of communication technology and contentious politics	✓
Proven ability to work on collaborative research and outputs	✓
Experience with critical and/or applied research in the area of technology and contentious politics	✓
Interpersonal & communication skills
Proven ability to build high quality relationships and collaborations with practitioners and academics	✓
Proven ability to communicate research ideas and findings in a diverse array of formats and to a diverse array of audiences	✓
Relevant Experience
Methodologically grounded research experience, both independent and collaborative, of a proven high quality	✓
Strategic planning experience	✓
Proven experience writing academic publications of national and international significance, as well outreach materials (e.g. blogs, website entries) for public engagement	✓
Additional requirements
Ability to work independently as well as part of a team	✓
Ability to travel for research and academic dissemination where necessary	✓

Declaration on Research Assessment

The University of Cambridge is a signatory to the San-Francisco Declaration on Research Assessment (DORA), and in recruitment or promotion evaluations will assess research on the basis of its merits rather than the journal or venue in which it is published. Applicants should not include Journal Impact Factors or uncontextualized metrics in their applications. Full details are at: <https://www.research-strategy.admin.cam.ac.uk/research-policy/DORA>

Centre of Governance and Human Rights

CGHR's distinctive approach, developed from empirical and theoretical innovation during our first decade, follows these tenets:

- Social sciences-led critical thinking, informed by deep interdisciplinarity;
- Student-led initiatives manifesting collaborative and inclusive knowledge generation – across disciplines, levels, and institutions;
- Deliberate bridge-building between scholarship and practice;
- Close collaborations with practitioners to identify issues and problems and design solutions and innovations starting from a grassroots level;
- Bringing collaborative knowledge into conversation with the academy to innovate theoretically, resulting in design-fuelled research and research-fuelled design;
- Reflexivity around the role of the academy in the world today and the politics of scholarship

CGHR thinks critically and innovatively to foster citizen voice and solidarity-building towards a just, inclusive and better world. In our 10 years, we have learnt that the crucial spaces for new thinking and action on justice, well-being and citizen voice challenges lie at intersections and in interactions between practice and scholarship, between disciplines, and between individuals and institutions across the world.

CGHR is run by Co-Directors Dr Ella McPherson (Sociology) and Professor Sharath Srinivasan (POLIS) and has, at any time, 1-2 postdoctoral researchers associated with it. Beyond, it is an active network of faculty and researchers from the Departments of POLIS and Sociology and across the University, who engage in its work on an ad hoc basis. In addition to research on priority themes, the Centre holds a wide range of events, seminars and dissemination activities and has regular involvement with practitioners as well as academic colleagues.

The Department of Politics and International Studies

POLIS provides an institutional focus at Cambridge for teaching and research on politics in all its dimensions; international and comparative, theoretical and empirical, abstract and practical.

POLIS is a self-consciously pluralistic department. This is reflected in the disciplinary diversity of our members and their wide-ranging approaches to the study of politics, and is supplemented through our close links to a variety of area-specific and thematic research centres, as well as numerous other departments and faculties within Cambridge and beyond. POLIS has current and emerging research strengths in areas that include the historical and contemporary study of political thought, international relations, British and European politics, the study of the global South, political economy, public policy and gender.

The Department offers undergraduate programmes as part of Faculty of Human, Social and Political Science as well as a joint History & Politics programme. It offers MPhil degrees in Politics and International Studies and Public Policy. The Department includes many research centres, including the Area Centres of African Studies, Latin American Studies, South Asian Studies, Development Studies, Gender Studies and the Bennett Institute for Public Policy, which are housed together in the Alison Richard Building on the Sidgwick Site.

Thinking with practitioners, at CGHR we are reimagining how justice, solidarity and citizen voice can flourish with or against technology. Academic research centres committed to praxis have a crucial role to play. At their best, they combine independence and freedom of thought, rigorous and innovative research, and patient and deep exchanges with practitioners. In our 10 years, we have learnt that the crucial spaces for new thinking and action on justice, well-being and citizen voice challenges lie at intersections and in interactions between practice and scholarship, between disciplines, and between individuals and institutions across the world.

The School of Humanities and Social Sciences

The School of the Humanities & Social Sciences is a diverse community of academics, students and staff from across all of our related subjects. Cambridge's reputation for excellence rests upon our outstanding teaching and our world-class research. The Institutions of the School support scholars who are leading authorities in their fields, and are home to innovative and collaborative research projects which continue to push the boundaries of our knowledge and refine how we think and see the world.

About the School

The six Schools of the University are administrative groupings of related subjects. The Council of each School acts as a coordinating organisation for the group, managing and prioritising requests from Faculties and Departments for consideration by the General Board.

The following institutions are within the scope of the Council of the School of the Humanities and Social Sciences:

- Faculty of Economics
- Faculty of Education
- Faculty of History
- Faculty of Law
- Department of Archaeology
- Department of History & Philosophy of Science.
- Department of Land Economy
- Department of Politics and International Studies.
- Department of Social Anthropology
- Department of Sociology
- The Institute of Criminology

The School's total annual expenditure from grants, fees, research grants and contracts and other sources is about £65m. The institutions in the School employ about 1000 staff (academic, assistant and contract). The School has more than 5,000 students, undergraduates and postgraduates, over a quarter of the University's total student population. The post holder will be an integral member of the School Office team.

The Council of the School is chaired by the Head of School, fulfilled by an appointment of a senior academic and supported by a Deputy Head with an education portfolio. The School Office is currently based at 17 Mill Lane, in central Cambridge.

Terms of Appointment

Tenure and probation

Appointment will be made on a 2-year fixed-term basis only due to Limited funding for a specific purpose.

Appointment will be subject to satisfactory completion of a six-month probationary period.

Hours of Work and Working Pattern

The appointment is full- time, working Monday— Friday.

Pension

You will automatically be enrolled to become a member of USS (Universities Superannuation Scheme) – a hybrid pension scheme. For further information please visit: <https://www.pensions.admin.cam.ac.uk/>

Annual leave

Full time employees are entitled to annual paid leave of 41 days inclusive of public holidays.

General information

Pre-employment checks

Right to work in the UK

We have a legal responsibility to ensure that you have the right to work in the UK before you can start working for us.

If you do not have the right to work in the UK already, any offer of employment we make to you will be conditional upon you gaining it.

Health declaration:

Once an offer of employment has been made the successful candidate will be required to complete a work health declaration form.

Qualifications:

The person specification for this position lists qualifications that are essential and/or desirable. Please note that if you are offered the post you will be asked to provide your relevant original certificates of these qualifications.

References:

Offers of appointment will be subject to the receipt of satisfactory references.

Equality and Diversity

We particularly encourage women and /or candidates from a Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic background to apply for this vacancy as they are currently under-represented at this level within our University.

Information if you have a disability

The University welcomes applications from individuals with disabilities. We are committed to ensuring fair treatment throughout the recruitment process. We will make adjustments to enable applicants to compete to the best of their ability wherever it is reasonable to do so and, if successful, to assist them during their employment.

Information for disabled applicants is available at <http://www.admin.cam.ac.uk/offices/hr/staff/disabled/>

We encourage you to declare any disability that you may have, and any reasonable adjustments that you may require, in the section provided for this purpose in the application form. This will enable us to accommodate your needs throughout the process as required. However, applicants and employees may declare a disability at any time.

If you prefer to discuss any special arrangements connected with a disability, please contact the Department Administrator, who is responsible for recruitment to this position. Alternatively, you may contact the HR Business Manager responsible for the department you are applying to via hrenquiries@admin.cam.ac.uk

The University

The University of Cambridge is consistently ranked one of the best universities in the world, achieving academic excellence through its Faculties, Departments and other Institutions, together with the 31 Colleges.

The University is renowned for its record of discovery and innovation. It is one of the great institutions, with a regional, national and global reach, attracting the very best and brightest minds. Our staff and students shape the world around us for the better: we attract and partner with like-minded people.

Whether contributing to the development of new anti-cancer drugs, adding to the understanding of how black holes are formed, revolutionising the study of ancient settlements, convening academic expertise to offer solutions to the climate crisis, or analysing public attitudes towards democracy around the world, the University's research is remarkable in its breadth, quality and impact. The University also sits at the heart of Europe's largest technology cluster and has catalysed more than 1,500 high-tech companies. And yet what inspires our 24,000 students and 13,000 staff is not what has already been achieved, but what is possible in the future.

The education and experience of our students, based on a partnership between the University's academic Departments and Faculties and the 31 Colleges, is second to none. Every student is a member of one of the Colleges, each a community of students, academics and staff drawn from across the University's comprehensive range of subject areas.

The University is a self-governing community, with a system for decision-making that provides a high degree of accountability and transparency to its members. Each Department and Faculty is part of one of six academic Schools, but each of them, and each individual academic, has a great deal of autonomy. The Colleges are independent and self-governing, working in a symbiotic relationship with the University.

The University has a number of Institutions that are independent of any Faculty or Department and are not part of the academic Schools. These include the Institute of Continuing Education (which provides high-quality education to adults throughout their lives), the Fitzwilliam Museum, Kettle's Yard (an historic house and gallery that holds important collections of modern art) and the University Library. In addition to their diverse contributions to University and public life, these non-School Institutions are also important centres of teaching and research.

Cambridge University Press & Assessment provides academic publishing, examinations and learning materials worldwide, supporting the dissemination of research, academic development at school and in higher education, and international student mobility. Legally, the Press & Assessment is a department of the University. It provides very important funds to invest in the academic purposes of the University.

The University has made truly remarkable contributions to the sum of human understanding, with breakthrough ideas and discoveries that have changed the way we understand ourselves, our planet, and the universe around us. Yet the global and national contexts in which it operates are fast-changing and increasingly filled with uncertainty. In a world that is becoming - politically, economically, socially, and technologically – ever more interconnected but even less equal, the University's mission – “to contribute to society through the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence” – has never been more relevant.

About Us

The University is one of the world's leading academic centres. It comprises 150 faculties and departments, together with a central administration and other institutions. Our institutions, museums and collections are a world-class resource for researchers, students and members of the public representing one of the country's highest concentrations of internationally important collections.

The University has an annual income of £2 billion. Research income, won competitively from the UK Research Councils, the European Union (EU), major charities and industry, exceeds £500 million per annum and continues to grow.

The Colleges and the University remain committed to admitting the best students regardless of their background and to investing considerable resources both in widening access and financial support. The 31 Colleges are self-governing, separate legal entities which appoint their own staff. Many academic staff are invited to join a College as a Teaching Fellow, which provides a further social and intellectual dimension. The Colleges admit undergraduate students, provide student accommodation and pastoral support and deliver small group teaching for undergraduates.

The University awards degrees and its faculties and departments provide lectures and seminars for students and determine the syllabi for teaching.

Our instinct for seeking out excellence and setting up enduring and mutually beneficial collaborations has led us to establish strategic partnerships across the globe. Whether it is the successful Cambridge-Africa Programme involving universities in Ghana, Uganda and elsewhere on the African continent; or the close association with the government of India to pursue new research in crop science; or the creation, with Germany's Max Planck Institutes, of a Cambridge-based centre for the study of ethics, human economy and social change – international partnerships are now an inextricable part of the University's make-up.

“Through its outstanding education, research and innovation, the University of Cambridge has made – and continues to make – a lasting contribution to human knowledge and is flourishing. By working at the University of Cambridge, you will be joining a vibrant community of students, scholars and professional services staff committed to supporting and enhancing the University's mission to contribute to society.”

*Professor Deborah Prentice,
Vice Chancellor 2023*

Working at the University

Working at Cambridge you will join a diverse, talented and innovative community, with more than 24,000 students and over 13,000 staff from all walks of life and corners of the world.

The University continually explores strategies to attract and retain the best people. It is committed to supporting its staff to achieve their best. We are a fair, diverse and inclusive society and we believe our staff are our greatest asset. There is strong commitment to developing institutional leadership and supporting and encouraging staff development at all levels.

The University offers a variety of roles including academic, research, professional, managerial and support roles. We also offer extensive benefits and excellent learning opportunities within a stimulating working environment.

The University's estate is undergoing the most significant transformation in its history. Cambridge has been able to create a science and technology campus to the west of the city centre, and is expanding further to the north west of Cambridge including investing in affordable homes for University key workers and community facilities. Even with their continued development, the University remains within walking or cycling distance across the campus. The University is a major partner on the Cambridge Biomedical Campus and continues to redevelop its historic city centre sites demonstrating a clear determination to ensure that we can offer the best facilities and opportunities for our staff and students.

Equality, Diversity and Inclusion

The University has built its excellence on the diversity of its staff and student community. We aim to be a leader in fostering equality and inclusion, and in promoting respect and a sense of belonging for all. We encourage applications from all sections of society. All appointments are made on the basis of merit. We have an Equal Opportunities Policy, along with a range of diversity groups, including the Women's Staff Network, Race Equality Network and LGBT+ Staff Network. More details are available here:

<http://www.equality.admin.cam.ac.uk/>

The University has a bronze Race Equality Charter award, with a framework for improving the representation, progression and success of minority ethnic staff and students within higher education. Furthermore, the University's silver Athena swan award recognises and celebrates good practice in recruiting, retaining and promoting gender equality.

Living in Cambridge

Cambridge is rich in cultural diversity. From beautiful University and College buildings, museums and art galleries, quaint gardens and punts on the River Cam, to a vibrant restaurant and café scene, our employees are surrounded by the wonderful features of this unique city.

You can find a wide-range of high street shops and 3 shopping centres, with independent alternatives at the historic market and nestled within the passageways in the city centre. You will find a cinema, bowling alley, a nightclub and various live performances at the Cambridge Leisure Park, with further entertainment options at the Corn Exchange, Arts Theatre and the ADC Theatre. Further information can be found on the Visit Cambridge website.

If you prefer the faster pace of life, London is a 45-minute train journey away. For those travelling from overseas, Stansted Airport is just 45 minutes away and Heathrow Airport under 2 hours away. The University is a short distance from a host of other attractions such as Ely Cathedral, Newmarket Races and various wildlife parks and stately homes. Cambridge is also within easy reach of the beautiful Broads and coastlines of Norfolk and Suffolk.

Relocation Support

The University recognises the importance of helping individuals to move and settle into a new area. We provide support and guidance to those relocating internationally or domestically to take up a post at the University of Cambridge, liaising with other University offices and selected partners to ensure comprehensive relocation support is available. This includes: accommodation, childcare, schools, banking, immigration and transport. If you would like further information, please visit

<https://www.accommodation.cam.ac.uk/RelocationService/>. The Shared Equity Scheme and the Reimbursement of Relocation Expenses Scheme provide financial assistance to qualifying new members of

Accommodation Service

The University Accommodation Service helps staff, students and visiting scholars who are affiliated to the University in their search for suitable accommodation in Cambridge. The dedicated accommodation team can provide access to a wide range of University-owned furnished and unfurnished properties, and has a database of private sector accommodation available for short and long-term lets. For further information and to register with this free service please visit:

<https://www.accommodation.cam.ac.uk/>

What Cambridge can offer

We offer a comprehensive reward package to attract, motivate and retain high performing staff at all levels and in all areas of work.

The University offers a wide range of competitive benefits, from family leave entitlement, to shopping and travel discount schemes. Our generous annual leave package contributes to the positive wellbeing of our University employees. Sabbatical leave enables academics to focus on research and scholarship, whilst still maintaining their full salary. The University also has a career break scheme for academic and academic-related staff, with additional flexible working policies for all other staff.

Pay and benefits

The University salary structure includes automatic service-related pay progression in many of its grades and an annual cost of living increase. In addition to this, employees are rewarded for outstanding contribution through a number of regular pay progression schemes. The University offers attractive pensions schemes for employees, with an additional benefit of a salary exchange arrangement providing tax and national insurance savings.

CAMbens employee benefits

The University offers employees a wide range of competitive benefits, known as CAMbens. CAMbens offers something for everyone across a range of categories, including:

- Financial Benefits, including shopping discounts (both local and national) and a Payroll Giving scheme;
- Relocation and Accommodation Benefits, including relocation assistance and interest-free Rental Deposit Loans;
- Travel Benefits, including Cycle to Work, discounts on train season tickets and interest-free Travel to Work loans;
- Family Friendly and Lifestyle Benefits, including support with childcare and family friendly policies;
- Health and Wellbeing Benefits, including a University Staff Counselling Service, discounts at the University Sports Centre, and other local gyms, and healthcare schemes.

What Cambridge can offer

Family-friendly policies

The University recognises the importance of supporting its staff. We have a range of family-friendly policies to aid employees' work-life balance including a generous maternity, adoption and shared parental leave entitlement of 26 weeks' full pay, and paid emergency leave for parents and carers.

Other family-friendly support includes:

Our highly regarded workplace nurseries, a childcare salary exchange scheme and a high-quality holiday Playscheme are available to help support University employees with caring responsibilities (subject to demand and qualifying criteria). Further childcare information can be found here:

<https://www.childcare.admin.cam.ac.uk/>

The Newcomers and Visiting Scholars Group (<https://www.nvs.admin.cam.ac.uk/>) is an organisation within the University that welcomes the partners and families of visiting scholars and new members of the University. Run by volunteers, the group offers opportunities to visit interesting Cambridge venues, learn about the community, take part in social events and gain local knowledge while developing a strong support network of both residents and other newcomers.

Your wellbeing

The University's Sport Centre, Counselling Services and Occupational Health are just some of the support services available to University employees to promote their physical and mental wellbeing. The University delivers The Festival of Wellbeing annually, which is a programme of stimulating talks and activities, which aim to promote wellbeing and good mental and physical health. The University also hosts the Cambridge Festival, which is a great opportunity to get your first taste of public engagement, through volunteering, supporting hands-on activities or proposing a talk.

Development opportunities

We support new employees to settle in through various activities as well as supporting their professional and career development on an ongoing basis. Our Personal and Professional Development (PPD) team provide development opportunities for all University employees, including face-to-face sessions, online learning modules and webinars. All employees also have unlimited access to LinkedIn Learning to support their development. Both new and existing employees can undertake funded Apprenticeships, which lead to a range of vocational and professional qualifications. We offer reduced staff fees for University of Cambridge graduate courses and the opportunity to attend lectures and seminars held by University departments and institutions. A range of University training providers also offer specialist learning and development in their own areas e.g. teaching and learning, digital literacy, finance, health and wellbeing, safety.

How to apply

Applications should be submitted online via the University of Cambridge jobs page www.jobs.cam.ac.uk by clicking "Apply online" in the job advert. You will need an email address to register for our online system.

Conversations about flexible working are encouraged at the University of Cambridge. Please feel free to discuss flexibility prior to applying (using the contact information below) or at interview if your application is successful.

Please ensure that you upload your Curriculum Vitae (CV), a recent writing sample (maximum 10,000 words), and a covering letter which includes details of how you meet the criteria set out in this document. Please also provide the names and contact details of three referees in the Upload section of the online application. If you upload any additional documents which have not been requested, we will not be able to consider these as part of your application.

All applications will be considered by all relevant members of the department. After shortlisting, where you have given permission, your nominated referees will be asked to provide a reference via the on-line system.

If you have any questions about this role, please contact Professor Sharath Srinivasan: ss919@cam.ac.uk

If you have any questions about the application process, please contact hr@hsps.cam.ac.uk

The closing date for applications is: 20 July 2025

The online interview date is expected to be: Early August 2025

